Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	As an elite athlete in the WADA testing pool for 16 years, I didn't give much consideration to the fight for clean sport. It didn't affect me. After all, I'd been a clean athlete my whole life and career. Only in 2022, at the Beijing Winter Games did doping in sport collide with my path head-on. I was the captain of the US Olympic Figure Skating team during the doping scandal involving an athlete from Russia. Not only did the saga result in the cancellation of our medal ceremony, but this particular case involved a minor. The entire experience was heartbreaking for every athlete involved, including the athlete in question. I feel compelled to run for WADA Athlete Council because I want to make a difference in the fight for clean athletes and clean sport. My experience in Beijing and in the months since has emboldened my belief that safeguarding clean athletes should be the number one priority. The best way I know how is to get involved in sport on a deeper level. In March, I was elected to the ISU Athletes' Commission. When it came time to pick a nominee for WADA Athlete Council, I immediately volunteered. This is a topic I am passionate about, and my unique experience makes me a viable candidate for this position.
What does Play True mean to you?	To me, Play True means every clean athlete deserves an equal opportunity to go for gold. This means a level playing field.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	As an athlete, anti-doping protocols were part of my daily routine. It is challenging at times: Updating whereabouts, getting tested after a long match, using only allowed medicine and allowing strangers in your home for testing. Looking back on my career, anti-doping protocols ensure equal opportunity for athletes around the world and protect their health. There is a life after a professional sport career and we have to protect athletes. I welcome WADA's plan to be more athlete-centered, and, given my experience, I believe I can be a strong representative for athletes and address matters that are important to them.
What does Play True mean to you?	Play True means for me to optimize performance on all levels within the guidelines of the WADA standards. It protects the integrity of sport and protects the health of athletes by promoting the importance of preventing doping.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	I believe that I possess many valuable skills which can contribute to the WADA Athlete Council. I know my way with people, but I do not have a problem with speaking on taboo subjects or some delicate matters, which might be difficult to discuss to certain people. I like to discuss such matters with my peers, find the most problematic ones, and then try to find a good solution to it as well. I believe that we should not merely point out the problems, but we also have a duty to find an appropriate solution for it, if possible.
What does Play True mean to you?	Spending our life in an honest and happy way. Feeling free, without imposed pressures. Finding joy in our journey, not just focusing on the goal.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	I want to be a member of the WADA Athlete Council because I care deeply about clean sport and I believe I can contribute to the fight against doping. As a two-time Olympian in biathlon, I have seen how doping can ruin our competitions and divide our community. But I have also experienced how athletes can join together to be a force for change. We have the power to demand and enforce a fair playing field, but we need strong and knowledgeable representatives in the WADA Athlete Council to do so. I am ready to be such an advocate.
What does Play True mean to you?	Play true means compete clean. It's a promise you make to yourself, your team, your competitors, and your fans.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	Living in a third world country and having the blessing to compete in other countries, to travel and to get to know how things are done in the proper way, has shown me the lack of opportunities our athletes have, just because they don't have the resources and the education that other ones have. So having the opportunity to see how things are done in the right way, has given me a responsibility of showing my people, people from Latin America that also do not have the opportunities, to show them the right path, the correct way of doing things.
What does Play True mean to you?	Playing by the rules with a sportsman conduct, always respecting the opponent and the referees, setting a good example for the youth.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	The New Zealand All Blacks have a mantra "plant trees you'll never see." This is when new All Blacks are asked to add to the legacy of the team and to leave the jersey in a better place than those that came before you. This sums up the reasons I would love to serve on the WADA AC. Thinking of my young daughter and other future athletes when they decide to take up a sport of their choosing, I want to know that sport is in a better place that where it is today. I want to do my part to ensure the inaugural WADA AC gets off to the best start and that its contributions will positively impact sport for generations thus "leaving the jersey (of sport) in a better place" for those after me.
What does Play True mean to you?	Playing true to me means being true to my fellow athletes by competing fairly in sport and competition. It also means being a role model for clean sport and helping my fellow athletes understand what that entails for them.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	I feel confident to work with people, speak up, educate and be a strong team worker. I am truly passionate about improving athlete representation within anti-doping. I can 100% identify with WADA's goal, that I dedicate myself for fairness in all sports. Serving as ITA'S Education Ambassador I can see the importance of education in anti-doping. There is a lot of information on the internet, but we have to put this knowledge into the athletes' heads more practically. I would like to develop this in the future, especially from a younger age with some innovative ideas.
What does Play True mean to you?	As an athletes' representative, I have been strongly supporting the athletes' rights, fair play and clean sport. Play true means equality and respect for me. Just naturally reaching your full potential in- and out- of competition.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	In 2009, I made my first National Team. Since that time, I have had the pleasure and good fortune to be impacted by some of the best rowing athletes and coaches in history. Through that, the value has most clearly impacted me is integrity. Sport has shown me that we have more in common as athletes and people than what divides us. As an optimist, I choose to believe in our shared curiosity as athletes as we aim to see where the best version of ourselves on competition day stacks up against the rest of the world. The caveat being the necessity for an equal and equitable arena defined by the rules of play. The best version of our aspirations should be supported, which is why I would like to passionately add my voice to the WADA Athlete Council in support of education (both preventive and how dangerous doping can be) and the upholding of clean sport principles.
What does Play True mean to you?	I'm not a talented athlete, I just work really hard with deliberate practice. My dream is for all athletes to have the opportunity to compete with integrity after years of dedication to their dream. For me, this is Play True.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	I am binational (Swiss on my father's side and Thai on my mother's). Having two cultures is an asset in understanding each other. I grew up and still live in Valais where I learned to love the mountains and sport. It would be an honor to me to represent the ISMF on the Athletes' Council. My youth as well as the fact that I have practiced different sports (skiing, ski mountaineering, running, cycling, triathlon and football) are advantages. I think it is great to be able to use the synergies between athletes from different nations and all continents to move projects forward.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	Because I gave most of my life to the sport and was an honest athlete, I fully supported the policy of the anti-doping movement and always followed all the rules. I climbed the podium of the world competitions and hoped that all those who were with me on the carpet were as clean as I am. It is very important for me that all the athletes of the world, responsibly approached the anti-doping rules and that all victories must be fair. I believe that sport should not go beyond human capabilities, the bar should not be raised so that athletes have to use doping for this. I want every athlete and coach to know and understand all the consequences of taking medicine, including how it affects health. Sport is honesty!

What does Play True mean to you?

Play true means coming to the gym every day and working for several hours. This means sometimes not seeing your family and friends because you have to go to training. This means that you train and only train and you do not need doping to be the first!!

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	Esports is now increasingly featured in mainstream sporting events, but it is still highly unregulated, with much to be studied in terms of anti-doping as it is a nascent sport. During my career, I have voiced out on behalf of many athletes in their fights for fair play, so it pains me when I see athletes who do not value integrity, or take performance-enhancing drugs like Adderall thinking it's acceptable. Having spent a decade in esports, I hope to offer my insights and help to develop relevant anti-doping regulations, in order to help uphold fairness, equality & integrity in the sporting world.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	I understand and fully support the value and importance of fair play and honour in sport. This ethos is embedded in my sport of Kurash for which the literal Uzbek translation is "attaining a goal by fair means." My participation in international Kurash tournaments has helped me make a worldwide network of athlete contacts. Through personal meetings at events and regular social media contact, I can capture athletes' views whilst also promoting WADA's anti-doping and educational initiatives at the highest level to help make a drug-free sports world for all.

	As a qualified engineer, I possess an analytical character and problem-solving nature. I look forward to using these skills with WADA so that I can make a real difference in the fight for drug-free sport.
What does Play True mean to you?	Play True promotes clean, drug-free sport to athletes and governing bodies. The Play True notions of fair play, integrity and respect have wider implications to society beyond sport. By embedding WADA's principles in all athletes, particularly those of school age, WADA can effect positive change throughout society.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	I believe strongly in the Ethics of Sport and the fundamentals of a fair system that values all athletes equally and treats them equally. I have nearly 10 years of experience of being on the testing pool and that experience along with my experience as an athlete and my extensive relevant scientific, academic and administrative experience gives me a unique set of skills that I think I can use to the benefit of WADA and the athletes the Council will represent. I believe athletes should give back to the sports we get so much enjoyment from and this is something that I both passionately believe in and matches my skillset.
What does Play True mean to you?	Play True means we agree a set of rules that treats athletes as equals, keeps athletes safe and allows the outcome of a competition be determined on athletic ability and skill. Play True means if you beat me in a race on a day you were fitter or more skillful because of the work you put in while we both followed those rules.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	I see the inclusion of athletes from non-Olympic sports as very important, and I want the opportunity to be the voice of those athletes within WADA. Athlete representation is crucial, and with lots of passion for enhancing athlete engagement 'on the other side of the table,' I would like to contribute to clean sport. I have been responsible for spreading the anti-doping message and helping to educate athletes, and through this have gained valuable experience that I can share within the council. My involvement with the work of the IFF Central Board and Athletes' Commission has provided a powerful insight into sports administration and I am ready for the next step in a global organization. Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	I have great interest in passing on the vision of Beach Volleyball and South America Volleyball, in the continuous growth of WADA in the world. I believe that Clean Sport is fair and brings its moral and educational rewards.

	The great challenge will be the continuity of the education of athletes regarding the harm caused by the use of doping. Clean Sport depends much more on strength of knowledge than harsh punishments.
What does Play True mean to you?	To me, Play True means playing fairly and honestly. In which all competitors can compete under the same conditions. Where talent, individuality and the quest to overcome their own limits will prevail.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	I love my sport and a dream of mine has always been to help promote and push karate to the highest levels. With great respect for WADA, being elected to the WADA Athlete Council would help me first and foremost bring the highest standards of world sport back to the sport that I love. Secondly, it would be a wonderful opportunity for me to represent karate and practitioners all around the world. I would look forward to bringing athlete perspective to a great organization like WADA and hopefully help discover areas where it can grow to carry its mission further.
What does Play True mean to you?	Play True reminds athletes that, at the end of the day, becoming a better person tomorrow has more value than victory or a gold medal.

Why do you want to be elected to the inaugural WADA Athlete Council?	Sport is the one human endeavour where competition revels in success. The only way to achieve this though is by ensuring that all competition is fair. WADA plays an important role in ensuring that the playing field is level. It establishes the norms of honesty and fairness in competition and ensures that these are enforced where abuse is detected. I see my role in WADA as helping ensure that sport that I represent not only complies but competes with an attitude of honesty and fairness that may even negate the need for enforcement. To me it is all about fair sporting activity.
What does Play True mean to you?	True play personifies the experience and elation that I get from competing in the sporting activity of my free choice. It is also a platform that allows me to show my true identity in a fashion that enhances the experience that others have of me while competing.
